

SET TO PLEASE THE BRIDE

When it comes to that special bridal set, the latest design buzz is for costume jewellery that combines contemporary chic with traditional grandeur. Drawing inspiration from a painting by the late Sobha Singh said to capture natural feminine beauty, Sohni have created an eye-catching collection said to complement the romantic aura surrounding the bride on her wedding day.

Customising to match outfits, sets can comprise necklace, earrings, tikka, panja, kalieera and churra. Featured here is the semi-precious stoned exclusive bridal set of drop necklace, earrings, hathpanja and tikka in gold plated finish, retailing at £375.

Products are tailored to client's tastes in a 'view by appointment only' basis to guarantee undivided attention you know you need. Choosing jewel sets takes the stress out of visiting endless stores for individual items. You can even go a step further in convenience shopping by hosting a Sohni bridal party. This means the entire collection is brought to your home for you to indulge in at leisure with friends and family. Could be a good addition to the at-home hen night? And there's a 10% discount on top offered on any party product purchased.

See www.sohnibride.com or their concession at BX, Soho Road, Birmingham.

Jewellery NEWS

Your essential need to know round-up on glittering gem trends xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx